Elyse Perambo , President's Message Transcript :

“From this connection this group has brought forward many incentives and continues to support education and quality for the goats. I sat down this afternoon to make a list of all that the CGA has been working on and supporting over the year and it's really quite a list and there's so many people I want to thank right now and take that time and all these people that have put in time, support, knowledge, resources that they've shared with us. For folks who maybe just became a member, I want to thank you for showing up at this meeting tonight. I also want to acknowledge the folks by naming them out quite a bit because if you look at it, our executive board this year, Lauren has been very supportive in the role as vice president and I really have appreciated everything that she has brought to help keep our board coming together. Christine is very much the glue of the organization keeping on top of agendas and emails and emails. Everybody know what's coming and keeping an eye on conferences and the past even brought grants to us. She's really out there and out at different conferences speaking about the goats. So thank you for all that above and beyond. I want to thank Mika for putting the time in as a treasurer, keeping track of finances, memberships, scholarships, or taxes. I know it's a lot of work, so I really appreciate you taking that on and just realizing that everybody's giving their time. We have a wonderful board.

I want to thank Janyne Deardoff for the year that you've put in plus more than year that you've put in on our board. David, Wendy and Peter and Michael thank you and thank you Kathy and Tatiana, all the folks who have been sitting on our board and are willing to step into a seat again. I want to take a moment to really thank Heidi Dickens for her time as an active board member. She's stepping down but she has really been supportive of the organization, helped with the Langston Initiative.

She has brought a knowledge to the group with her work with such a large herd and ties in with the university. There's a bunch of folks who are not on the board and one that I really want to speak to and highlight is Pam Haendle has gone above and beyond and she really also is another person who is doing so much behind the scenes. All the work that you've done Pam with the website, with the registration the database. You're really doing so much above and beyond, and I really appreciate all that you put into the organization. So thank you. Danielle, I'm glad you're on tonight. I want to thank you too for all the work that you've done in with the webinars and your great experience that you bring with your genetics background and kind of questioning looking at how genetics work kind of debunking some of our breeding theories that we've sometimes kicked around with the kind of hard science of genetics.

I deeply appreciate you bringing that knowledge and all the work that you've done over the years with the educational webinars and tying together different outreaches. I also really want to thank your daughter, Allie Fowler, for taking on taking on Hoofprints and being our editor. Anne Taylor has been our archivist and keeping our records together, I appreciate that she has been keeping our history alive.

Cody, thank you for stepping up and helping with education booth at the New York show and Stephanie Burke for taking on an initiative with the Maryland education booth. Sister Mary Elizabeth Garrett for really working to keep the barn at Rhinebeck, the display barn full and working with the youth to keep the excitement around cashmere.

Ellie Derbyshire thank you for stepping in to learning more about maybe becoming a judge and taking the time to go work with Jayne. I want to thank Mary Reynolds and Jana. We ran into a little old IRS hiccup, and they notified us right away. I was able to clear it up really quickly because of how quickly they notified us. And then really, we've been working in these different activities and committees, which leads me to more thank you.

Michael and Lauren, you both worked together on these new education flyers that we were able to take out and put out and I think really just help show people the depth of what's going on with the goats and they presents really well what we're doing. Again, Danielle, for the educational webinars and Allie for the Hoofprints. I wanted to put a big thank you out to Ron Fiorica and Jayne Deardoff, and all of the NWCA.

A huge round of thank you and applause for Kathy for putting in all that time within a New York show. There was a lot of moments where we were not sure if it was going to happen, and Kathy took a lot on. I really appreciate all the effort that you've done last two years. And that's one of the big things that we're hoping we can build a little more support up with the show committee.

For Kathy and all of us working on it because it's really too much for one person to be caring on 'cause she did it and made it happen, but it was a lot of work. So thank you for making that happen. I also wanted to really thank Mika and tatiana and Kathy for spending the time working on the ship reference guide. We've got a really nice packet now that folks can reference.

I'm really glad through the funds that we have built up that we're still able to support with youth scholarships. We're able to send out a youth scholarship to the New York show. So thank you, Mika, for sending that out. Really wanted to put a shout out to Danielle and Heidi Dickens over the years for working with Texas A&M and Langston research and really questioning how the histograms are happening and hone in what they've been doing with their machines. I want to thank the whole judging group that meets when they can of David, Jayne and Wendy. And just for you all offering to give your time to look over fleeces for folks who maybe can't get their goats to a show. And so we really appreciate that you offer that services. I want to thank Christine and Heidi for going out to the American Sheep Conference in Colorado and talking about cashmeres. And for Christine and Tatiana bringing awareness about the Cornell Sheep and Goat Symposium and our opportunities for supporting that.

I am really exciting what to come this year for CGA. We've had someone reach out about a Goat Expo happening and Dorothy Avis has offered to go down and represent us .

Ella Derbyshire spent some time with Jayne at a fiber show so I'm really excited for the opportunity for her be a new up and coming judge . We're working on farm judge visits so people can have their animals assessed. Really looking for some support around a website, looking at how to spruce up the website maybe, questioning like do we need to be paying all the different fees but that might be upcoming a committee review task.

We will continue to look for more opportunities trying to figure out about youth education support and how that might look moving into the next year and reaching out to the Hudson Valley Textile group about them having a histogram. And finally, then just asking everybody, if you haven't registered your goats, please do, I really appreciate that it's something that's open, free and available. I was just registering some sheep and having to pay all these fees and so it's still something out there that we're offering to folks.

I know that was a long list of everything, but there's so many people doing so much with boots on the ground, so I really wanted to take a moment to thank you all “
